

Josh Lee is a seasoned technology executive with over 20 years of implementation and innovation experience with a number of technology firms. Josh served as a technology executive leading teams in innovative product and solution development at Immedient, Microsoft, Microstrategy, and Risk Management Solutions. He championed industry marketing development at Informatica and holds several patents in data technology and visualization from work done at Microsoft in Bill Gates' office. During the dawn of eCommerce in the 90's, Josh acted as a board advisor to several national HIMSS chapters. Josh is most recently the CIO of Optum Health's West Region based in Las Vegas. He now is the President of Aspinwall Group, LLC, a technology startup focusing on healthcare data technology, machine learning, AI and telemedicine innovation. Josh is a professional photographer and erstwhile gourmet chef in his spare time.