Phil Fegan is Chief Information Officer at P3 Health Group, a consulting organization that forms strategic partnerships with clients, working together to embrace transformative change.

Mr. Fegan has almost 30 years of healthcare experience holding positions in payer companies, hospital institutions, medical groups, healthcare operations as well as in information technology. Utilizing experience from all aspects of the healthcare systems, both in the United States as well as the United Kingdom, enables Phil to provide innovative health care technology solutions across the continuum of care.

In his role at P3, Mr. Fegan is responsible for understanding, assisting and advising their client partners on how to maximize their technology and informatics investments. Mr. Fegan will also work with leadership to develop a technology roadmap to empower the care team as the client moves to a fee-for-value relationship with their payers.

Prior to joining P3, Mr. Fegan worked as Vice President of Information Systems at HealthCare Partners Nevada, that State's largest medical group. In the UK he worked he worked at Standard Life Healthcare, the UK's fourth largest provider of private medical insurer, in various roles. Mr. Fegan began his health care career at the British United Provident Association in their Birmingham regional branch, and then promoted to run the Manchester claims payment office.

Mr. Fegan completed his education in the UK before immigrating to the United States in 1997. He is married, with three daughters and lives in Las Vegas.
